

NUNALLEQ

Stories from the Village of Our Ancestors

What was life like for Yup'ik people living on the Bering Sea coast 500 years ago?

Nunalleq: Stories from the Village of Our Ancestors is a free interactive educational resource for Mac and PC which invites children to explore the archaeological investigations of a historic Yup'ik sod house near the village of Quinhagak, Alaska. This multi-vocal resource was co-designed by the Nunalleq Archaeology Project and the Quinhagak community. It brings together narratives from archaeologists, Elders, Alaska Native artists and young people within the village.

Find out more at www.nunalleq.wordpress.com/education

